

Virginia March for Life:

Yesterday was a powerful day as close to 7,000 people descended upon the Capitol marching for the sanctity of every human life. The first annual Virginia March for Life was an enormous success, with Virginians from around the state of all ages coming together to fight for life on a blessed beautiful spring day. Thank you to everyone who came and witnessed to the truth. Our elected officials heard you loud and clear!

Pro-Life Victory:

While thousands marched for life just outside the Capitol, legislators met inside for their "veto session" to consider the Governor's vetoes and proposed amendments to bills. In one of his proposed amendments, the Governor had tried to undo the new restrictions against abortion funding that the General Assembly had adopted in February. But his attempt failed 50-45 in the House yesterday. The state budget bill, therefore, goes back to the Governor's desk with the essential Hyde Amendment restrictions against abortion funding fully intact. A fitting end to an amazing day!
